

USS Clamagore Submarine Artificial Reef Project - Palm Beach County FL

For over three decades, the USS Clamagore has attracted millions of visitors to the Patriots Point Naval & Maritime Museum near Charleston, South Carolina. However, the iconic World War II cold war submarine is now ready for a new chapter in history.

Artificial Reefs International/US Navy Clamagore is seeking sponsorships to sink the USS Clamagore as the world's premier submarine reef off Palm Beach County, Florida

Take a short guided tour of the submarine with Project Leader Joe Weatherby by clicking on this YouTube Link: https://youtu.be/N\_ARYIPZa-U

“The Grey Ghost of the Florida Coast”

The USS Clamagore is a highly decorated Cold War submarine with nine Battle Effectiveness Awards, a Presidential Citation, a Meritorious Unit Citation, a Unit Commendation, and three Viet Nam Service ribbons.” She was commissioned in 1945 and served 30 years during the Cold War. While based in Key West, she was called “the Grey Ghost of the Florida Coast.” In 1975, the submarine was decommissioned, and then designated a National Historic Landmark in 1989.

Limited Edition Challenge Coins

The Challenge coin is a commemorative souvenir that has a distinct design based on the official Navy patch with the Clamagore Blue Parrotfish. Only a select number of coins will be produced, making them an instant collector’s item.

- Brass
- Full color

Palm Beach County to Create Historic Artificial Reef

February 7, 2017 | By Rick Straton and John Tapley
Palm Beach County is one of scuba diving's favorite destinations and stretches from the Atlantic Coast to north of Everglades National Park. All along the scenic coast, visitors can appreciate fine diving, which includes sites both natural and man-made. Thanks to the efforts of the dive community, Palm Beach County may have a new centerpiece in its underwater landscape: the USS Clamagore, an iconic Cold War submarine.
